Re: Options to make up the 10-11 class session

Summary:

I would like to thank each of you for your prayers for my wife. She continues to be in risk, but is under care, and in God's capable and caring hands. Therefore I think it is important for us to put a plan in place to make up that day, and possibly to optimize this course for you "all" as well. I would like to talk out this FIRST this coming Thursday the 18th. I have put together and attached three options for you to review:

1. This is the minimum schedule/course change. It slides one class day into the "November break" but other than that it is just our class using a "discretionary day" as a required day.
2. This option is a hybrid. Schedule with some content delivery change. It slides the basic classes one week and then takes the last content day and splits it into 2 days leaving about a third of each of the 2 class days for discretionary student project time.
3. This option uses both of the optional days – but then goes and rebalances the study material, the last two quizzes, and the 2nd test. This should lighten some of the weekly study "over" load during this next period but it does use our two team days to do it.

So, please come to class prepared to help us decide which of these options we should do.

Unfortunately I can only do one of the three, and we must do one of the three.

Thank You, Carl j Simonsen
